Firms Warned Of Unfair Trade Restraint

WASHINGTON, January 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Eight opponents have been given thirty days by the Federal Trade Commission to answer a charge of violation of the law against restraint of trade in connection with the manufacture and sale of radio equipment and the rendering of radio service.

The respondents, the Radio Corporation of America, General Electric, American Telephone and Telegraph, Western Electric, International Telephone and Telegraph, United Radio, and the Radio Corporation of America, are accused in the complaint, announced yesterday by the commission, of creating and maintaining a monopoly.

They acquired all patents controlling the manufacture of radio apparatus—about 100 in number—and merged them into the Radio Corporation, it is charged, by agreement and cross licenses, to restrict the scope of the activities of any competing company.

Agreement rights also were pooled, it is alleged, to enable them to maintain an advantage after expiration of their patents.

FIFTEEN PERISH WHEN GAS EXPLOSION WRECKS HOUSE

PAWTUCKET, R. I., January 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Fifteen persons were killed when escaping gas flooded a two family cottage at Cumberland Hill, Pawtucket, early today, and wrecked the building. The victims were Michael Conway, who lived in one side of the house; Adolair Hamel, his wife, six sons and five daughters, and Miss Apolline Dancon, a boarder, with the Hamel family.

Medical Examiner Marshall attributed most of the deaths to asphyxiation. Conway was found wedged in the debris after the explosion. His two sons tried to rescue him but he ordered them to get their mother and sister out of the house first and while they were doing so, he fell into the cellar, which was a mass of flames. Conway was formerly a Cumberland police officer.

So far as the authorities could learn the Conway boys after smelling escaping gas opened the cellar and a light in the hallway ignited the gas. The explosion which followed is believed to have detonated some dynamite which Hamel, who was a wood chopper, had stored in the cellar. Hundreds of windows within a radius of half a mile were shattered by the combined gas and dynamite explosion and the detonation was heard twenty miles away.

Miss Dancon had come to the Hamel home as a boarder only last night. The Hamel children ranged in ages from two to twenty-one years.

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF HUNTINGTON WOMAN

PITTSBURGH, PA., January 28.—(By the Associated Press)—Police were endeavoring today to unravel the mystery of the death of Mrs. Laura Hall, of Huntington, W. Va., whose body with a bullet through the head, was found late Saturday night in an automobile with three men. The discovery was made by a policeman in the business section of the city when one of the men in the automobile inquired the way to the nearest hospital.

The three men who are being held by the police on the technical charge of being suspicious persons, have been identified, the authorities say, as the three men who staged a holdup in McKees Rocks, near here early Saturday night. After further questioning by the police this morning, they were to be turned over to the coroner in connection with that official's investigation of the woman's death.

Charles G. Jordan, of Huntington, W. Va., one of the three, and a former West Virginia state policeman, told the police that he accidentally shot Mrs. Hall. The others held are C. L. Moore, of Huntington, W. Va., and E. L. Telford, of Huntington.

According to word received by police last night, Mrs. Hall's father, Elmer Wellman, of Port Gay, W. Va., and her brother-in-law, Edward Fielder, of Huntington, were to arrive here to claim the body.

Mrs. Hall, who was 19 years old, had lived apart from her husband, Henry P. Hall, since a few weeks after their marriage at Chhattsburg, Ky., early last year.

For several months I scarcely ate enough nourishing food to keep going. I began very weak and nervous and did not know what to do to help myself. I realized that something had to be done. I can now eat anything; my indigestion has entirely gone. My bowels are regular, my nerves are stronger, and I sleep good. I cannot do any less than recommend Ka-dok to stomach sufferers. It will surely help them." "Weak, nervous, run-down men and women, who need more strength, better digestion, and a tuning up of the nervous system will find Ka-dok very efficient remedy." When Harold to the South was sent by doctors, he'd been told he suffered every ill a man can have and not be laid out cold. In far-away Paradise, where he took his ill and pills, Jim Blake, a rough-neck reeve, was itching for some thrills.

His outlaw gang did storm the town and take it by surprise and when our hero came along he was thrown a prize. Into the dungeon he was thrown—a prize for a criminal, who did his best and freed the boy when he cured him a toothache.

In all our hero's rodded life he'd never known such thrills. He'd surely die—his head was hot, his feet were cold, but, what chills. He looked about him for his nurse—his valet, too, was missing, and found the girl in the villain's arms—and he was lug the kissing.

Saving the damsel from distress had never been his calling and when he licked the dirty scamp he found it most appalling. The villain had to have a play, but Cupid entered in, though to win the girl took three reels more of laughs and fights and

BODY OF LENINE IN UNFINISHED MAUSOLEUM

MOSCOW, January 29.—(By the Associated Press)—The body of Nikolai Lenin lies in an unfinished tomb in the shadow of the Kremlin, whether it was carried yesterday while a half million people paid their tribute to the man they honored as the commander of a new humanity.

The casket rests on an elevated platform in the mausoleum's sunken central chamber over the door to which is the word "Lenine" in relief letters. The double wooden walls are filled with sawdust so that the temperature may be maintained at three degrees below zero. Over these walls and from the ceiling hang draperies of red and black bearing the imprint of the sickle and the hammer, the symbols of the state.

Never has the new Russia seen a ceremony more impressive than the entombment of Lenin. Beginning early in the morning before the civil mass of the House of Unions, thousands gathered in the vicinity of Red Square awaiting the coming of the funeral procession. It was thirty degrees below zero.

During the march to the mausoleum, the pall bearers were changed at frequent intervals, and all the high officials of Soviet Russia took their turn in helping to carry the casket.

At the tomb, Endokimoff, a central committee member, extolled Lenin as the "international genius of the modern revolution," a man who "stood on the threshold of a new epoch of the ages."

There was a peal of bells, the boom of cannon and a salute from the factory whistles as the casket was lowered to its date. Thousands bowed their heads and some Communist brims. Throughout Russia whistles blew and salutes were hailed and then there were five minutes of silence.

Ohio Farmers Not Discouraged By Present Unsatisfactory Condition of Cattle Market

WASHINGTON, D. C. January 28. (Special)—Evidence that Ohio farmers are not discouraged by the present unsatisfactory condition of the cattle market is found in an increase of at least 10 per cent in the number of cattle now on feed in that state, it was asserted here today by the United States Department of Agriculture.

This contrasts with an increase of but 1 per cent for the entire corn belt as compared with January 1 of last year, and a decrease of about 25 per cent in the Western Mountain and Pacific States, according to detailed data gathered by federal investigators.

The number of animals on feed in the states east of the Mississippi is said to be about 3 per cent larger than last year and the number west of the river practically unchanged.

Shipments of stocker and feeder cattle into the Corn Belt during the last six months of 1923 were somewhat smaller than during the same period of 1922, but they were larger than in 1921 and 1920, and larger than the five-year average 1914-23.

A greater number of cattle on feed is declared by federal officials to be one of the results that will come of the agitation for diversification of crops as one method of assisting farmers out of their present unsatisfactory economic situation.

There is also considerable optimism among feeders and farmers generally concerning the future of cattle, very few believing that the somewhat disastrous experience of the past year will soon be repeated.

Heavy shipments during the closing months of 1923, it is held here, were largely responsible for a break in price, and it is stated that the supply now more nearly approximates demand and that there is sound reason for believing that cattle now on feed will be turned at a satisfactory profit.

One of the most important real estate deals closed in the city in many months was consummated Monday when Hall Bros., well known clothiers, purchased the Win Nye corner on the southeast corner of Fourth and Chillicothe streets, buying it from the owner, Mrs. Laura Wertz Wilhelm of Fourth street.

"We purchased the property merely as an investment and will not make any changes in our new purchase at present," Charles S. Hall, senior member of the firm, said Monday. "The present tenants have no leases and haven't had for sometime. We consider the corner one of the most valuable in the city and growing more valuable every day."

The deal includes all the properties on the site, which is 41 by 130. Win Nye occupies the corner room with his drug store. Ben G. Harris occupies the second floor with his studio. The Keystone Press occupies the one-story frame structure in the rear and the two-story frame dwelling on the alley is also included in the deal.

"Of course later on we may make some changes in the properties, but have no announcement to make along this line at present," Charles S. Hall said.

The deal was handled by the Hickey Realty company.

"IT is Safe to buy at Baldwin's."

Don't Be Fooled

In regards to an advertisement which appeared recently, wherein it stated that a Baldwin Piano was for sale, the inference was made that it had been "traded in" in Portsmouth on another make of piano, when such however, is not a fact. This Baldwin Piano, along with several other makes of our instruments, was purchased outright for cash in another city, and then shipped to Portsmouth for the express intention, no doubt, to mislead the public into thinking that it had been "traded in" on a cheap and inferior make.

Knowing the high quality of our instruments, and being unable to obtain them in any other manner, unscrupulous dealers often resort to methods such as this in their deliberate attempts to fool the public. In other words, it is a weak attempt to bolster up confidence in a cheap product.

Don't be fooled! The good people of Portsmouth are not exchanging Baldwin Pianos for cheese boxes, any more than they would exchange a Gold Dollar for a counterfeit dollar. That people do not countenance such methods as mentioned above, is evidenced by the fact that there are more Baldwin Pianos and Player-Pianos in use in Portsmouth than any other known make.

Furthermore, we have at this writing eight different makes of pianos and player pianos that have actually been "traded in" on Baldwins, by Portsmouth people, within the past few weeks, the names of whom we will cheerfully give on request.

It will pay you to investigate. Remember, "It is safe to buy at Baldwin's."

Young Peoples' Week Being Observed At Second Presbyterian; Banquet Tonight

What promises to be a week filled with interest and wonderful experiences for the young people of the Second Presbyterian church commenced at the Senior and Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor Societies. At that time the opening "gun" of the Young Peoples' Week was fired by the members of the Flying Squadron, who have been speaking in six various churches of the Presbytery for several months past. These speakers presented a message of interest, and a large crowd was on hand to hear them. Promptly at six o'clock this evening (Monday), following a conference of workers at 5:15, a "Thank" Banquet will be given to the members of the Boys' and Girls' Sunday School Department and the Senior and Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor Societies. The inspirational services will follow on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 7 o'clock. # Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, trouble, work, edgewise, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—What do you think of a person who would send one's obituary to the paper and let them read it themselves? Now don't you think that is a terrible thing for a person to do? Some nosy or meddling neighbor sent my obituary to the paper and it was printed, and I imagine my surprise when I picked up the paper and read it. Dolly, can anything be done with the person who did that? If so, who shall I take the matter up with? My death notice ran in the paper about two weeks ago, but I am still very much alive and living right here in Portsmouth. I don't blame the paper for running the obituary, as they probably accepted it in good faith, just like all death notices.

A REAL LIVE READER.

Persons can be fined and sent to jail for giving false information to newspapers for publication, and if you find out who had your obituary printed I wish you would let us know. They may have thought they were playing a great joke on you, but I fail to see the joke in a trick like that. Are you sure there was no other person by the same name living here, who might have died?

Dear Dolly—I would like to have some of your advice. Dolly, I have been a wandering girl, and there is no one in this town who knows my identity. I am living under an assumed name. My parents are millionaires living in Miami, Florida. I was such a wild girl that I disgraced my folks and the people living in my home town, so I struck out for myself. I was always a disobedient girl at home and left after my down-fall. I don't blame my parents for my going astray as the "old Nick" was in me, and had to come out sooner or later. Since roaming around the world I have been a detective, a cow girl and have played in the movies. I am awfully good looking and am working here in Portsmouth at present. Dolly, the reason that I am writing to you is that I have fallen in love with a nice young man, and I was just wondering whether or not I should tell him about my checkered career. We are engaged and I would hate for him to find it out from some one else. I have been a real nice girl since I have been going with him and he does not suspect that I could be anything else. Dolly, do you think he would ever find out that I have been such a bad girl? I am very beautiful, and it was my beauty that led me astray. Dolly, just tell me what you think of a girl like me and I won't get a bit mad at you. It would do me good to get a "bailing out" from some one.

A GOOD-BAD GIRL.

I would give you advice, if I thought you were sincere, but I know that you are laboring under an hallucination of some kind. I also know that you are not a millionaire's daughter, and that you have never been in the movies, unless it was in a mob scene, or in some local scene. You are probably "Cuckoo" and imagine all these things. If you have met a good man who wants to marry you, I think the best thing you can do is to marry him, and quit day-dreaming. You might ramble off the story you have told me to him, but I don't think you could ever convince him that you were the "victim" or the "hero" in the plot. I would also advise you to send your millionaire parents an invitation to your wedding and they may buy you a house on "Easy street" for a wedding gift.

Dear Dolly—I read a letter in your column the other night signed "J. C. H." asking where he could go or what he could do for rheumatism. He wanted to go to Hot Springs, Ark., or some other place where he might get relief, etc., and I would just like to inform that man that he can take vapor baths and Turkish baths right here in Portsmouth that have practically the same effect as those given at the springs. Local physicians recommend these baths for the treatment of rheumatism, etc., and they are given by us at reasonable prices. All work guaranteed.

B. AND B.

I will give your name and address to this man or anyone else interested in vapor baths.

Dear Dolly—I am a girl of 15 and my mother is dead. I live with my father

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

My Home's a Garden Where the Flowers Stay Awake.

The Riddle Lady said next day in Riddle Land, "We have had several winter riddles, so this is a summer riddle. It's about something very small and bright and only seen on a summer night. Listen now, Nancy and Nick! Listen, everybody! Here's the riddle:

"My home's a garden where the flowers stay wide awake for hours and hours, And then at dusk they fold up tight And say good-night."

"But the house I rent—a big, red rose, Is not so sleepy I suppose, And because it does not shut up so! And out I go."

"I am the watchman, if you please, I watch the flowers and garden trees, No one comes in, no one goes out, If I'm about."

"My lantern winks and winks and winks, And Mister Moon he blinks and blinks, And so between us both, why we Watch carefully."

"For fairies and the tricky elves Would just come in and help themselves, To leaves of this and buds of that, For dress and hat."

"And caterpillars! My, oh me! They're out for food—to get it free, They'd gobble stems and break off leaves, The greedy thieves!"

"I fly around 'most everywhere, I peep in here, I look in there! What would this lovely garden be Were it not for the moon and me?"

"Oh, dear!" cried Miss Muffet. "If you mean it's a lightning bug I wish you wouldn't say it in front of my daughter. Since that day with the spider, things like that upset her dreadfully."

"But you have just said it yourself," the Riddle Lady exclaimed laughing. "Didn't she, Nancy?"

"Why, I declare! So I have!" declared Miss Muffet. "And she doesn't look a bit nervous. She must be cured."

"Of course I am," said Miss Muffet, speaking big herself. "And as for lightning bugs, they are lovely. They always remind me of fairies."

"Ah, too!" said Nancy. "I love them, quite little things, with their winky, blinky lanterns."

IT'S A SACRIFICE!

To put on a real estate campaign such as we are attempting; for it takes every ounce of human activity; it takes days and nights of strenuous toil; it takes hundreds of dollars of hard earned money, to accomplish our purpose, and that is to give to the public the advantages of "special" listed property at "special" prices and to "BREAK ALL RECORDS" for selling property.

BUT,

There is no joy or happiness in one's life, unless you can accomplish something worth while; unless you can help your fellow-men; unless some responsibility rests on your shoulders.

THE BURDEN OF RESPONSIBILITY, now resting on our shoulders is to protect your interests, and to give you our very best efforts; whether it is in buying or selling you a home or business property, and this we set out to do by giving you another famous

RECORD WEEK OF 1924

Our plan is to list every desirable piece of property in Portsmouth, New Boston and Scitoville, at very reasonable prices, with a view of giving the people the advantages of these special listings.

NOW THEN,

If you have property to sell,—no matter how large; no matter how small; if your price is right we can sell it.

Just call 342 or 71, and we'll be right on the job.

Attention Corn Show Visitors

Lucasville will be the center of agricultural interests next Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 23 and 24. Hundreds of folks from all parts of the county will attend the annual Corn Show. Many city people will drive out to view the exhibit and meet their rural friends.

And for this occasion the Village Store has fortunately been able to secure a Prize Beef. It is seldom indeed that such an animal in the prime of life and condition over graces a butcher's block. But it is only natural that when such a splendid specimen of modern methods of stock breeding must be sacrificed that it should be offered at the Village Store because of its reputation for the sale of only the best beef obtainable at low prices.

A Calf Club Grand Champion

That's what this beef was. Twice winner of first premium at the Scioto County Fair and exhibited at the Ohio State Fair. Tuberculin tested. A pet all its life—fat as a butter-ball.

Some time ago Mr. George was asked by an interviewer: "What is your favorite amusement?" The novelist replied: "Loafing about a great city between midnight and dawn." His reason he gave as follows: "At night it is the unexpected happens. The few people about you would be in bed, were it not for some unusual cause: love, purpose of crime, agony of apprehension, or black poverty. Lonely under the stars, these people seek company; they willingly confide in you; and even enlist you in their schemes." Thus Mr. W. L. George has wandered hundreds of nights in London, Paris, Barcelona, New York, Chicago, etc. He has participated in several exciting adventures, which he relates here, altering the names and details for the sake of his strange companions of the night. Three of these adventures actually happened to Mr. George: three are slightly amended. They make up the picture of darkness and passion which stands behind the face of every great city, and represent a hidden world into which the daring can penetrate.

THE WAX LADY

UPON the north side of Hyde Park, against the railings, stand a few benches on which, when it is fine, elderly people take the air. Upon my wanderings I sometimes investigate this spot, for people who await the dawn in such places are sometimes interesting. Thus, one night, as I was loafing about my hunting ground, I perceived coming toward me a strangely formed shape, something rather low upon its legs, the upper part of which was bulky. As it came closer, I saw that it was a small man carrying a bundle. I went toward him, so as to benefit by the lights of Victoria Gate, and saw that the bundle was a sack which the man with difficulty bore upon his right shoulder.

"All, I don't mind your seeing what I've got, nose Parker," he uttered the cord; the sack fell down in folds. I took a step back, filled with horror: from the sack emerged the head and shoulders of a beautiful girl. The policeman, too, stopped back. What increased my horror and puzzled me was that the beautiful head was hairless. The little man must have perceived our feelings, for in a soothing tone he added: "It ain't a corpse." The policeman gingerly touched the sack, "It's wax," he went on, pulling down the sack so that we might see that under the dazzling neck and shoulders, which shone gaudily under the moon, the body was represented by a low wooden frame.

looking at me with interest, obviously not accustomed to the assistance of men in tails and white waistcoats. "Expect me an' I'd be talking now if you hadn't appeared along. Those coppers, they don't mind what they do to a pore man; 'e'd 'ave wanted to know this 'ere, and that 'ere, wasting 'alf the night."

Somehow we were walking along together toward the west; I had my reason for this already: the little man talked abundantly, but from time to time he looked up to me, puzzled, and perhaps annoyed. Probably he would have told me to let him alone, if it had not been for my size. He was a small man, and I happen to be one of those people who cannot get into an omnibus with their hat on. And I am broad in proportion. I culminated over the little man like a mountain; no doubt this embarrassed him. Still, after a while, we crossed the road: at the corner of a street he attempted to get rid of me, remarking: "So long, guv'nor," and paused. "That's where I turn off," he remarked.

"Indeed?" I said. "You're going out of your way. That goes north. Acton lies west."

He flung me a malevolent glance: "Well, now you mention it, that's a funny thing. I got it into my head that I had to turn off 'ere. Thank you for mentioning it, guv'nor. So long." He went on westward, but I followed him. His now became a sulky mood; he refused to talk, and so we went for several hundred yards. At last, however, I determined to play my card. So I said: "You're a hairdresser, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"Is yours a good business?"

"So, so."

"What do you do?"

"Shaving, 'air-dressing, ladies most."

"Indeed? How is it that the ladies don't mind the state your hands are in?"

"What's the matter with my 'ands?' asked the little man, stopping pug-nastically.

"Now, don't try and make a fool of me. You haven't got the hands of a hairdresser. My good man, nearly all your nails are broken, and you've got machine oil into the skin of every finger."

"Well, I never! One nosy parker after the other! And what's it got to do with you, I'd like to know?"

"Nothing. That's why I'm interfering with it. Look here, I don't want to do you a bad turn. If I'd wanted to, I had my chance ten minutes ago. I only had to point out to the policeman that you said you were a hair-dress and that you had the hands of a laborer. He'd have wanted to know more; he'd have wanted to know why a man with machine oil over his fingers pays ten shillings for a lay figure?"

"Well, I'd have told him I fancied it."

"He wouldn't have believed you. And I don't believe you."

"You can do the other thing."

"All right," I said amiably, suddenly clasping his left shoulder in a grip that surprised him. "If you feel so comfortable about it, come with me to Ladbroke Grove police station, and if I've judged you unfairly, I'll give you five pounds."

"I don't want four—money."

"I thought as much. Now, tell me the truth: if you don't like to take you to the station, and then you won't get the five pounds anyway."

by the poor man if the surtax rates do not become more productive of revenue. The test of Republican leadership is at hand, but even the most ardent champions of the Coolidge administration are inclined to admit that the surtax rates have a serious fumbled the ball and will lose it altogether if they do not pull themselves together and make an effort at least to gather in a favorable public opinion on the surtax question. The proponents of a high surtax are strong only because the question has not been understood by the general public. The Republican leaders in the House have not strengthened the situation by their readiness to compromise. And the Democrats, observing the weakness in the Republican camp, are prepared to drive still further till they put through, if possible, a tax bill all their own.

Women to attract must Radiate Health!

BEAUTY is the magnet which draws all eyes—and back of beauty—Health—working silently. Red blood tingling through the veins;—the glow of youth in the cheeks;—the spring of eagerness; of vim, of vitality in the walk;—the ever graceful air, untroubled by care or worry.—All the charms of beauty. All the works of health. Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps—wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness that is not theirs. But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved-for attractiveness—that beauty. Good looks is the harbinger of one's condition. Good health radiates beauty. S. S. S. purifies the blood—creates new red blood cells—rids the system of impurities which make beauty and attractiveness impossible. As women to attract must radiate health so must they keep their systems free from impurities and their red blood cells ever increasing. S. S. S. does both. S. S. Keep Him Out Of It
Senate action will be confined to the Terapot Dome transaction at this time. It was explained because of the conditional offer by Doherty through his counsel, to recover to the government the lease awarded to his company on the California reserve. Senator Walsh, in making public his resolution, said word of the committee's decision of support in principle, despite a pledge to regard it as confidential. "Obviously" had been taken to the White House prior to the president's announcement of his decision to act at once. White House officials, describing the president's course in formulating his decision, said he devoted his trip Saturday on the Mayflower to a study of the situation, after which he conferred with advisors here and shortly before leaving his statement, received a communication from Attorney General Daugherty, who is at Miami, Fla., urging him to take the action announced. The president's conferees included Chairman Lenoir of the investigation committee; Senator Curtis, of Kansas, assistant Republican leader; Acting Attorney General Seymore, and Assistant Attorney General Holland, who has been observing the progress of the hearing for the last week as the personal representative of Mr. Daugherty.

How's Your Elimination?

If you have a "weak back," head-aches, indigestion, thirst, or "wandering" pains, it is probable that your kidneys are not doing their full duty, or perhaps are overloaded with the work of eliminating waste products. These products are systemic poisons when allowed to accumulate in the body, and they are coadjutors to a number of serious ailments.

NYAL STONE ROOT COMPOUND
Is an effective aid to proper kidney action. It is an old-fashioned medicine. It contains no salt-peter. It does not over-stimulate the kidneys, to produce later weakness.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Jesse Johnson
Death at 11:20 o'clock Monday morning claimed Rebecca Simpson Johnson, beloved wife of Jesse Johnson of Scioto Trail, the final summons coming after a lingering illness of complications from which she had suffered for several years. Although ill she was not forced to remain bedfast until the last two weeks ago. During the last two weeks she faded rapidly and for the last few days had been in a dangerous condition, the end not coming unexpectedly.

Mrs. Jesse Johnson was 70 years of age and was born on the West Side near Lucasville, one of thirteen children born to Elias and Mary Howard Simpson. Her father was a resident of Scioto county for forty years and was known as a very successful farmer. On February 12, 1873, Miss Johnson married Jesse Johnson, who was born on the West Side at the mouth of Bear Creek, a son of Isaac Newton Johnson.

Sometime after their marriage they moved to Scioto Trail just north of Lucasville. Their grounds, about twenty-five years ago they moved to the present Johnson home on the trail near Rosemount Road. The husband alone survives all of the twelve brothers and sisters having passed away. Dr. N. Fleming of Detroit, is a nephew.

Mrs. Johnson was a member of First Baptist church, Portsmouth, and had always lived the life of a true Christian woman and had a legion of friends who will be sorry to learn of her death. She was kind and charitable to all and will be missed. She possessed much civic pride and was always gratified to see Portsmouth advanced. Funeral services will be held from the home with burial in Lucasville cemetery.

Pres. Sec'y-Treas.

Marguerite Estelle Hale
Marguerite Estelle Hale was born in Greengrass, Ky., March 15, 1922. She fell asleep at her sisters home, Mrs. Kermi Nickels, at 1041 Eighth street, a bright and beautiful child who left her earthly home, leaving a father, mother, two sisters and two brothers to miss her bright and happy face.

We know Marguerite Estelle is safe in her heavenly home but her going so early has left such an empty place in our hearts and homes. After weeks of illness with measles, whooping cough and chicken pox she was stricken with pneumonia which caused her death Jan. 26, 1924, at 5:45 a. m.

She was the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. James Hale formerly of Greengrass, Ky., now of 2213 Eighth street, this city.

World's Record Made In Jackson Plant

RULINGS ON BANKS

JACKSON, OHIO, January 28.—A world's record in the manufacture of Silicon iron was made at the Jackson Iron Steel Company furnaces Saturday and Sunday and every day about the plant from last week.

On Saturday 197 tons of seven and eight per cent high Silicon iron was turned out and on Sunday 199 tons were made. Only a few furnaces in the country are now making this grade of iron, which is used on special jobs, and the record heretofore was considerably below that made by the Jackson furnace.

The plant of the Jackson Iron & Steel Company has been completely overhauled and is working to capacity. Mr. Harry Shick, general superintendent, Mr. Shick is one of the best informed iron and steel men in the country. He received his training in the Pennsylvania region, and came to Jackson some months ago from Mansfield, Pa., to assume the management of the local plant.

CIVILIZATION MOVES NORTHWARD

THE advance of civilization into the Polar wilds, of which Vilhjalmur Stefansson complained a few days ago in announcing that because of the ease and safety with which one could now travel in those parts he would quit exploring the Far North, is exemplified in the news that two Eskimoes in a remote Arctic island are to be hanged, having been found guilty of murder by a duly constituted court of the Canadian government which sat there. Persons of romantic temperament will regret the passing of this "no-man's land," since it leaves comparatively little territory in the world where conditions are such as are depicted in the stories of savages and lawless adventure. They will feel much the same as Alexander the Great when, after subjugating many countries, he sighed because there were no more worlds to conquer.

Of course, the Arctic regions are far from having been thoroughly explored and there are still parts where the aborigines hold sway, free from any interference by the governmental authorities of the countries that claim possession of the land. But law and order have been established nearly everywhere.

The process of establishing the institutions of civilization is progressing so rapidly that probably comparatively few persons are aware of the present status of the matter. The Canadians now have a post of the Royal Mounted Police at Craig Harbor on Ellesmere Island, just a little more than 800 miles distant from the North Pole. At this same place there is a custom house and a postoffice, the most northerly in the world with the possible exception of one on the island of Spitzbergen. Radio is accomplishing wonders in bringing these remote places into contact with the rest of the world. The expedition which installed the outposts of civilization on Ellesmere Island had a small portable wireless set weighing only a few pounds, yet received signals from Panama, Berlin, France and intermediate points.

A site suitable for a landing field for airplanes has been located on Ellesmere Island and a Canadian government aviator who has looked over the region reports that the weather during the latter part of May, and in June, July and part of August "appears to be almost ideal for aviation, the 24 hours of continuous daylight making conditions particularly favorable."

Two thousand miles north of Ottawa, it has been found, the general climate of the winter season is no more severe than in many of the more northerly settled parts of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and in summer there are hundreds of square miles of land bare of snow and covered with flowers, grass and moss supporting innumerable animals including caribou, musk-oxen and foxes, while there are immense acres of coal and indications of many other minerals.

All of this adds interest to the proposed cruise of the United States Navy dirigible balloon Shenandoah to the North Pole next summer, with its avowed purpose of claiming possession for the United States of the land found in the highest latitudes.

There may be an American town at the Pole itself a few years from now.

Theatre Owner Sues Movie Producers For $450,000

NEW YORK, January 28.—(By The Associated Press)—Sibney K. Campton, proprietor of a theatre at New York, N. J., today filed in Federal court suit for $450,000 under the Sherman act, naming Will H. Hays and a number of the largest motion picture producers and distributors in the United States as defendants.

Among the defendants enumerated are the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, the Fox Film Corporation, Associated First National Pictures Inc., Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, and Metro Pictures Corporation. The complaint alleges a conspiracy to monopolize the entire motion picture industry, to force Campton out of business by unfair practices and to injure his credit and good standing "because he refused to be subservient."

The complaint assails the so-called uniform contract alleged to be enforced by the picture producers and distributors of America Inc., of which Mr. Hays is president, and alleges that the arbitration clause embodied in the contract is actually used by the corporation to dictate to the exhibitor the films he will display.

Samuelson asks recovery of the $450,000 as treble damages and a permanent injunction restraining the defendants from further injuring his business.

Next to a Shakespearean revival, nothing is harder time getting an audience than an understudy. A bright, pretty day will keep the doctor away.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up and fell a-wishing for country sausage and so to the market and a great breakfast afterward. Then to Art Young's studio to praise him for a sketch he limned but he was away to see Bailey, the poet.

My wife, poor wretch, met me with great happiness over the any-things I bought for her in Boston and took me to Brennan's to see the set of Thackeray she had bought, paying for them with the check for the first article she ever wrote and I quite proud.

In the afternoon Frederick Davis, the scrivener, came and sat awhile and then to my scribbling and sat for three hours without writing a word and in great despair and scolded Martin, the maid, who was in tears and vowed to quit the house, but I apologized and we were friends.

The night being fair and a brave moon I put out for the park to walk about the lake and home after midnight as weary as I have ever been in my life. So to bed.

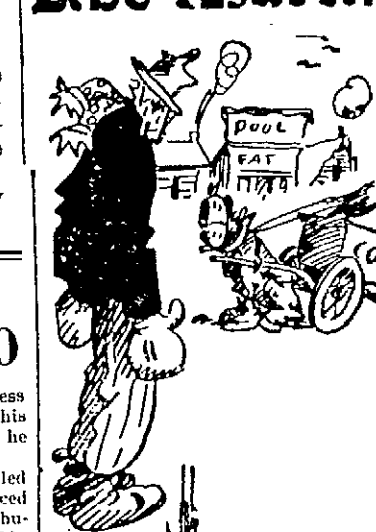

There is a lyrical swing to a dancing academy's sign on Fifty-sixth Street. It reads: "We teach the lulu-fado and the fandango, too!" In the same building is a hand writing expert. He has a Van Dyke and his temple is attached with gray. There is a devil-may-care worldliness about him. I wondered how he became a member of this profession and inquired. He said he studied hard writing to save an honored family name when he was young. He said he never knew a slovenly writer who was not slovenly in his personal habits. This seemed to me entirely too personal so I brushed the cigar ash from my vest and walked out.

There used to be an old negro in Missouri who, when asked if he could read, said: "Yessah, I can read readin' but I can't read writin'."

The belted overcoat boys who frolic in front of the theater canopies along Broadway have had their last sky-larking. Commissioner Enright has ordered his plain clothes men to arrest them instead of merely giving the order to "exit laughingly, boys." These are blood brothers to the smart sales of the Main Street drug store, save they are far bolder. It is not unusual for them to step out of their circle and walk along with unescorted ladies to whisper insinuations.

They buried a former queen of the Bowery burlesque halls the other day. In her day she had appealed to the Bowery's slapstick sense of humor by permitting complaints to slap her on the back and otherwise rough-house her in public. Yet here was a woman who lived in very domestic life away from the footlights. She married young and was the mother of four children. Her husband was a worthless waiter in a Bowery dance hall and deserted her. She kept up the house and raised a family. Her eldest son is a dentist in Harlem. The youngest is traveling for a drug house. Two daughters have married well and have their own homes. When the mother became too old for the front row she became a wardrobe mistress—the "usual haven for actresses of mediocre ability blighted by years. She led a clean life and was respected by all who came in contact with her.

Gold teeth are evidently still popular in burlesque choruses. It is only in the burlesque booking office it seems to me one sees young girls flashing gold crowns. There is a rule in the office of musical comedy producers that gold teeth bar an applicant. If they are otherwise eligible the gold crowns must be removed before they can join the chorus. One 21 year old leading lady, incidentally, has upper false teeth. The original was knocked out in an auto smash-up.

Body of Mrs. Ida Dimler, a Former Local Resident, Missing Since Dec. 26, Recovered

Mrs. Ida Dimler, 74, widow of John Kimler, for years a resident of Portsmouth and later of Ironton, Ohio, was found today by a search party of the Chesapeake and Ohio river at Chesapeake, opposite Huntington, W. Va. Her body was found on the bank of the Ohio river at Chesapeake this morning. The river has been falling for several days and today was well back within its banks, the receding water at that point disclosing the remains of the woman, who was sought by anxious relatives and county and city officials for several weeks.

Mrs. Dimler lived on Fourth street, east of Officers street for a number of years. About two years ago she went to Ironton to live with her sister, Mrs. Emma Doran. Mrs. Dimler and Mrs. Doran were in Huntington in an automobile on the day after Christmas and when Mrs. Doran returned to their automobile after a few minutes' absence she found Mrs. Dimler missing. A search was made of the city, but it was without result. The next day it was learned that a resident of Chesapeake, O., had met the woman on the Ohio river shore near Buffalo Creek, which empties into the Ohio at Chesapeake. He rescued her from the small stream and directed her to the ferry dock, which she said she was seeking when she fell into the creek.

It is now thought that she fell into the river while going to the ferry dock. Mrs. Mary Selich of 840 Third street was a sister-in-law of Mrs. Dimler, and Mrs. Caroline Haupt of 1537 Fifth street and Mrs. Fred Schmidt of Twelfth street were nieces.

Mrs. Dimler was a member of St. Mary's church, this city.

Undertaker George Pfeiffer went to Ironton this afternoon to claim the body and bring it back to Portsmouth. Funeral services will be held from St. Mary's church Wednesday or Thursday morning, with burial in Greenlawn.

The announcement that Billie Bennett, Portsmouth showgirl, would soon wed a St. Louis girl, "busted" the heart of a Portsmouth girl.

Youth Strangled When Window Falls On Neck
HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Jan. 28.—Paul Hall, nine years old, was strangled in a vacant house here today when a window dropped on his neck. His body, suspended eight feet from the ground, with his head pinned beneath the window sash, was found half an hour later by a neighbor.

Flesh torn from the victim's hands and scratches made by his feet on the side of the building were evidence of his desperate struggle for life.

The boy's family had moved to another house and left him to look up. In climbing through the window he had knocked out a prop supporting the sash.

Family Aroused By Fire; Home Destroyed

Fire, thought to have started from a defective fuse, completely gutted a three-room frame house in the rear of the Coco Cola bottling plant, 13th street, just east of Waller street, and slightly damaged the bottling plant building, about 7:15 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott and six children occupied the three-room frame structure in the rear of the bottling plant. Mrs. Scott and baby son, Norman, 14 months old, were sleeping in the front room of the house when the mother was awakened by smoke and crackling of the flames. On awakening she found the ceiling of the room near the bed aflame. She aroused her husband and other children sleeping in the rear room. Most of them left the house without taking time to put on shoes or stock. The family managed to save a little bedclothing, two stores and several pieces of furniture. The family is temporarily located in the Beyer property on Fourteenth street. Mr. Scott is a shoe worker at the Drew plant. He did not carry any insurance.

The fire swept through the attic and down the side walls. From the structure in the rear the flames spread to the roof and attic of the bottling plant, which is a stone structure and has a tin roof. The firemen despite the extraneous cold, managed to halt progress of the flames before they reached the main building.

No machinery was damaged and the plant resumed operation as usual this morning.

R. W. Anderson, manager of the bottling plant, highly praised the firemen for their good work and to show what he meant what he said, presented them with a check.

The property damaged is owned by H. T. Hutton, whose loss is covered by insurance.

Hazelbeck will insure you.
